

Cynthia Guo

It is what makes you move, the rhythms and beats that shape a line, or a piece

The mood or tone that vibrates a single string

To create chords and then a phrase

It is a language, written all over your head and inside your mind. The words in this language,

Float in the air and wrap around you expanding in all directions.

Each sentence conveys a question, and then the next answers the call.

Your ears grab the sound into your head when it plays.

It could be as simple as just two notes, or as complex as a whole symphony of sounds.

Music is a way of life, part of a culture

Music is art.